

case seats were refused to the chairman and secretary of the Mannington district convention, who had been elected honorary delegates. The report was adopted. The question recurred on the motion of Forest Brown, of Jefferson, made in the afternoon, to recommit the majority and minority reports of the committee on basis of representation. J. Dallas Ewing, of Wheeling, opposed the motion. There was loud cries of "question!" but here Mr. Brown withdrew the motion. Then the question was on the adoption of the majority or minority report. John J. Davis, of Harrison, spoke for the minority report, contending that the only true test of a party's strength is in the vote for President, and that should be the basis of representation. Mr. Davis rejected the idea that the refusal to vote for the majority report would place a club in the hands of the Republicans; that had already been done by the state committee. Mr. Davis's voice was drowned by cries of "question."

WILD DISORDER REIGNED.
Then Joe Chilton, another McCorkle lieutenant, mounted the platform and there ensued a scene which baffles description. The convention became a howling mob. The Bennett men attempted to howl Chilton down. He stood on the platform with a smile on his face, while the chairman pounded the table with his gavel. The din continued for some minutes. Seldom has such an unruly mob gathered together in West Virginia. Bad feeling had arisen between the factions, and it showed itself. Finally Senator Faulkner shouted, "No Democrat shall be howled down in this convention as long as I am chairman."

Still the three thousand maddened howlers kept up the din. Finally Chairman Faulkner took the bull by the horns and declared that the business of the convention would not proceed until order was restored, and in a speech full of passion, appealed to them as men and Democrats to fair play. Finally Chilton made himself heard. He had but a single point to make, and right eloquently did he do it with a voice that could be heard to the farthest corner of the wigwag. He stated the circumstances of the Goff-Fleming recount in Kanawha, and said it was for this Democratic convention to decide if it would by its vote, on this question, endorse the Kanawha county, or their own Democratic legislature.

Amid the greatest excitement the roll of counties was called on the question of the substitution of the minority for the majority report. It was a supreme test of McCorkle's strength and that of the combined opposition, and would in a measure clear the gubernatorial sky. Everybody felt this. The roll call proceeded without interest until Kanawha was reached. She voted 33 votes no. Eustace Gibson challenged the vote containing Kanawha was until entitled to 31 votes until the question at issue was settled.

FLEMING STEAL INDORSED.
The chairman sustained the point and two votes were knocked off Kanawha county. Following is the ballot:

This was first blood for McCorkle and the convention went wild. The majority report was then adopted, and nominations for governor were in order.

THE NOMINATIONS.
It was 10 o'clock when the roll of counties was called for nominating speeches. There was no response until Greenbrier was reached and Senator Arbuckle mounted the stand and with a ringing speech placed in nomination John M. Sydenstricker, dwelling upon his record as a brave confederate soldier and the fact that he was a farmer. The mention of the candidate's name invoked little applause. William Cornwell, a Hampshire county delegate briefly seconded the nomination. The roll proceeded until Kanawha was reached and ex-Senator Flournoy got the floor. He stated that he was not speaking for Kanawha county but for the Democrats of West Virginia when he placed in nomination William A. McCorkle. He enumerated all McCorkle's virtues before mentioning the name, and when it was mentioned there was a single outburst of applause lasting less than ten seconds.

Lewis county was reached and the appearance on the stand of O. W. Chidester to place Bennett's name before the convention was heartily cheered by the Bennett party. His speech was not calculated to raise enthusiasm, being delivered in a halting manner. The convention seemed to have worn out its lungs during the bitter fight of the early part of the night and was not in a cheering mood. However, Judge Bennett's name was greeted with a good round of applause, far exceeding that accorded McCorkle. The applause lasted nearly a full minute.

EASTHAM'S NAME CATCHES THEM.
The call proceeded to Mason county, and Hon. B. F. Martin, of Taylor county, on behalf of Mason county, placed in nomination Farmer Presley C. Eastham, urging strongly his claims and the propriety of his nomination. He told the farmers that they had been voting for lawyers a long time, and now it was proposed to give them one of their own number for governor. The applause which greeted Eastham's name astonished the convention. It was the greatest demonstration of enthusiasm of the evening, and there was an attempt to prolong it, but Chairman Faulkner vigorously wielded the gavel and brought the convention to order.

MCCORKLE HAS A WHIFF.
Hon. Wood Daily, the "silver-tongued" orator of Mineral county, in his speech of less than five minutes, which set the convention on fire with enthusiasm, seconded McCorkle's nomination. The McCorkle men rose to their feet and for some time there was waving of banners and hats, and it seemed that the yell would raise the roof. As the fiery young orator proceeded the enthusiasm grew, and the Bennett and Eastham men were afraid of a stampede and cried "time," but he finished amid wild excitement. Immediately following this, a new oratorical light burst upon the convention in the person of young M. D. Post, of Harrison, fresh from the University. He is a mere boy in appearance, and there were misapprehensions as to his great convention. His speech was sophomoric and abundant in grandiloquent phrases, but the convention made due allowance on account of his youth. It was a brilliant display of verbal pyrotechnics, but it made the boys cheer for Bennett, whose nomination he seconded.

SIMPSON TELLS THE TRUTH.
Perry Simpson, of Mason county, when Wood county was called, seconded Eastham's nomination. He said he had witnessed the Democratic majority in West Virginia dwindle from 17,000 until it required an act of the legislature to seat a governor, and it was all because they had not been nominating farmers. He declared Eastham could carry the state by 15,000 majority.

Hon. Eustace Gibson, of Cabell county, wanted to second Bennett's nomination, but the McCorkle crowd contended that a motion had passed limiting the number of seconds. The chair declared no such motion had passed. There was great confusion and an attempt was made to howl Gibson down. He yielded to the wish of the convention and retired in good humor. Then amid great excitement and confusion a ballot was ordered.

THE FIRST BALLOT.
The first ballot was as follows:

	McCorkle.	Bennett.	Eastham.	Sydenstricker.
Barbour	4	8	3	8
Berkley	11	5	5	5
Boone	7	17	1	1

EVERY COUNTY CHEERED.
The vote of nearly every county was cheered. It was plain from the start that there would be no nomination, but the interest was none the less intense. The number of fractional votes was astonishing, very few counties not giving them in. When it was known that McCorkle would lead the enthusiasm of his supporters knew no bounds. The strength he developed was a surprise to many of them. They sensed victory, but the opposition was firmer than ever, and the hustlers began to strengthen their lines.

SNYDER'S INDIGNATION.
Pending a declaration of the result, Judge C. P. Snyder created a sensation by arising to a question of personal privilege. Indignation was written on every line of his countenance as he held up a copy of the Wheeling Evening News. He sent it to the clerk's desk and asked that an article in it be read, that he might make a personal explanation. He stated that it was an infamous attack on his personal character. The chair ruled that the result of ballot must be announced first, and Judge Snyder consented to wait. On the declaration of the result a delegate moved to adjourn. This was met with a perfect storm of noes from the McCorkle men. The motion was lost and the second ballot began.

SECOND BALLOT.
There was great confusion during the call for the second ballot. Fully 3,000 people were on their feet. The spectators crowded into the aisles and about the reporters' desks, obscuring the light from them. There was no order whatever, and Chairman Faulkner yelled himself hoarse and split his gavel trying to secure order. To make matters worse the electric lights went out at twelve o'clock and left the convention in total darkness for about ten minutes. The light came on again shortly and business proceeded. There were few changes on the second ballot. Eastham began to gain some, and the friends of the farmer candidate were in the ascendant. McCorkle's friends had no cause for discouragement. Breaks were looked for and a stampede was not unlikely.

OHIO MAKES THE FIRST BREAK.
Ohio county made the first serious break, giving McCorkle 35 votes out of her 49.

Before the completion of the roll call, Greenbrier having been passed, Senator Arbuckle asked unanimous consent and withdrew Sydenstricker's name. Greenbrier was then called and the convention waited with interest until the county could be polled. In the meantime Marshall changed her vote, giving McCorkle two more votes. Hampshire changed and gave Eastham ten more. Then Greenbrier was again called and pulled up McCorkle's vote 19 votes.

MCCORKLE CROWD BREAKS LOOSE.
Here the McCorkle crowd broke loose and yelled themselves hoarse. Hampshire changed and pulled up Bennett's poll 19. It was growing exciting. A delegate challenged the vote. Wayne pulled Bennett up 10. Ohio county asked to change and plunked 41 votes for McCorkle and 8 for Bennett. Eastham's strength was going to pieces and the excitement was at fever heat. Hancock changed from Bennett to McCorkle. A fight broke out in an aisle, and the crowd pushed in that direction. Thirty more votes will nominate McCorkle. Doddridge raised Bennett's vote.

Delegations were caucusing all over the house. The Chiltons were here, there, and everywhere with hats and coats off working like beavers. Jefferson county comes to the rescue with 23 votes solid for McCorkle and the Kanawha sees daylight. The convention goes wild. Delegates fell over each other to get recognition. Ohio county gets recognition and raises the McCorkle vote to 45. Chairman McGraw, of Taylor county, changes that county's vote. It is solid for McCorkle, and the convention is wild. Everybody thinks the Kanawha is nominated. Hancock again changed to McCorkle and the din is deafening. The hall is a sea of waving hats, but there are sore hearts. The state house brigade is downed, and there are uneasy hearts among the candidates for auditor.

OHIO COUNTY DOES IT.
Ohio county comes in solid for McCorkle and the deed is done. McCorkle is the lamb named for the November sacrifice. The cheering is nearly all among the delegates. The spectators are taking little interest. The great majority of them are badly disappointed. Even Governor Fleming looks grim, but it is made unanimous and that settles it. It was done at ten minutes past one this morning and McCorkle was tendered an ovation at once. The convention then adjourned.

DARING BANK ROBBERY.
Robbers at El Reno, Oklahoma Territory, Secure Over Ten Thousand Dollars.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—The Star's El Reno O. T. special says: El Reno was thrown in a fever of excitement at 10:30 this morning by screams for help coming from the Bank of El Reno. The screams were from Mrs. Sayer, wife of the president of the bank, who had just been held up by two robbers who had also robbed the bank of $10,500. At half past ten a stranger entered the bank, stepped up to the cashier's window and made an inquiry about some town lots and then stepped to a desk commenced writing. In a moment another stranger stepped to the cashier's desk and presented a gun at Mrs. Sayer's head and demanded that she hand out all the money in the bank. She stepped to the vault and handed him all the packages of bills in the vault safe and what was in the daily change drawer, aggregating about $10,500. The man who was writing at the desk grabbed the money as Mrs. Sayer handed it through the wicket and disappeared out the door. The one holding the gun followed quickly. Mrs. Sayer screamed several times and fell over in a swoon. The robbers mounted horses and rode away. Mrs. Sayer was the only person in the bank, the president, her husband, being absent in Oklahoma City. He arrived at home about thirty minutes after the robbery. The robbery is believed to be the work of the Daltons, on account of the manner of its execution. Hundreds of citizens on horseback and buggies, with ropes, and fully armed are in pursuit.

Parkersburg Citizen's Suicide.
Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 27.—Thomas Dalley, an old, industrious and respected citizen of this city committed suicide this evening by shooting himself through the head. He died instantly. No cause was assigned, unless as a physician suggested, the intense heat.

Strong Witnesses.
Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, is that of Nathan Allison, a well known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills, cured him. Peter Jaquet, Salem, N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with heart disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the New Cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The New Cure is sold, also free book, by Logan Drug Co.

WARM BATHER IS DOM.

SOME MERCHANTS would have you believe that trade enters a condition of torpidity about July 1, and remains so till the cool days of September wake it to life and activity again.

But, begging your pardon, that is not true. There is no season of the year in which people do not buy goods; there is no season in which they do not want them. By the same token, there is no season in which it will not pay to advertise.

However, if your neighbor has this old-fashioned notion, and is too conservative to advertise now, there is all the better chance for you. If you think people are not hunting bargains in warm weather, try it.

Everybody is not out of town, by a large majority!
